Coleman Joins Elliott Bay Design Group

EBDG's Naval Architecture Team Adds Talent in Seattle

SEATTLE, WA (February 5, 2018) – Eric Coleman has joined Elliott Bay Design Group's team of naval architects and engineers, bringing with him six years of marine experience. Eric's experience is broad, with an emphasis on preliminary and detail design work of aluminum and steel vessels. Eric has worked on a wide variety of commercial vessels and charter yachts up to 210 feet in length. Eric's background includes hands-on shipyard experience, comprising production oversight, class and regulatory compliance, and designing for production.

Eric commented, "I have long admired the work of Elliott Bay Design Group. I am excited to add my own talents and experiences to this talented team of committed professionals."

Eric is a licensed professional engineer in Washington State and received his BSE in Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering from University of Michigan.
